GET HIRED WITH DEEPSHIKHA

THE HIDDEN JOB BOARD PLAYBOOK

How to find jobs before they ever hit LinkedIn or Naukri

> A note from me before you start
>
> Almost every job you see on LinkedIn or Naukri already lived somewhere else first. On the company's own hiring system. Days, sometimes weeks, before it ever got reposted to the platforms everyone else refreshes all day.
>
> This document gives you the exact searches I'd run to find those postings directly, before the crowd shows up.

Instagram: @bydeepshikha

LinkedIn: linkedin.com/in/deepshikha-goswami-4224511b4

What's in this document

Part 1	Why the job you saw on LinkedIn is already 2 weeks old
Part 2	The search trick, step by step
Part 3	The full list of hiring systems and their search strings
Part 4	Turning this into a saved daily routine
Part 5	The 10 minute checklist

Part 1 · Why the Job You Saw Is Already Old News

Companies almost never post a role on LinkedIn first. It goes up on their own careers page, or the hiring system running behind it, while the internal team is still deciding whether to post it publicly anywhere else at all.

By the time it reaches LinkedIn or Naukri, in a lot of cases the shortlist has already started forming.

You want to be standing at the second box, not the fourth one.

Part 2 · The Search Trick

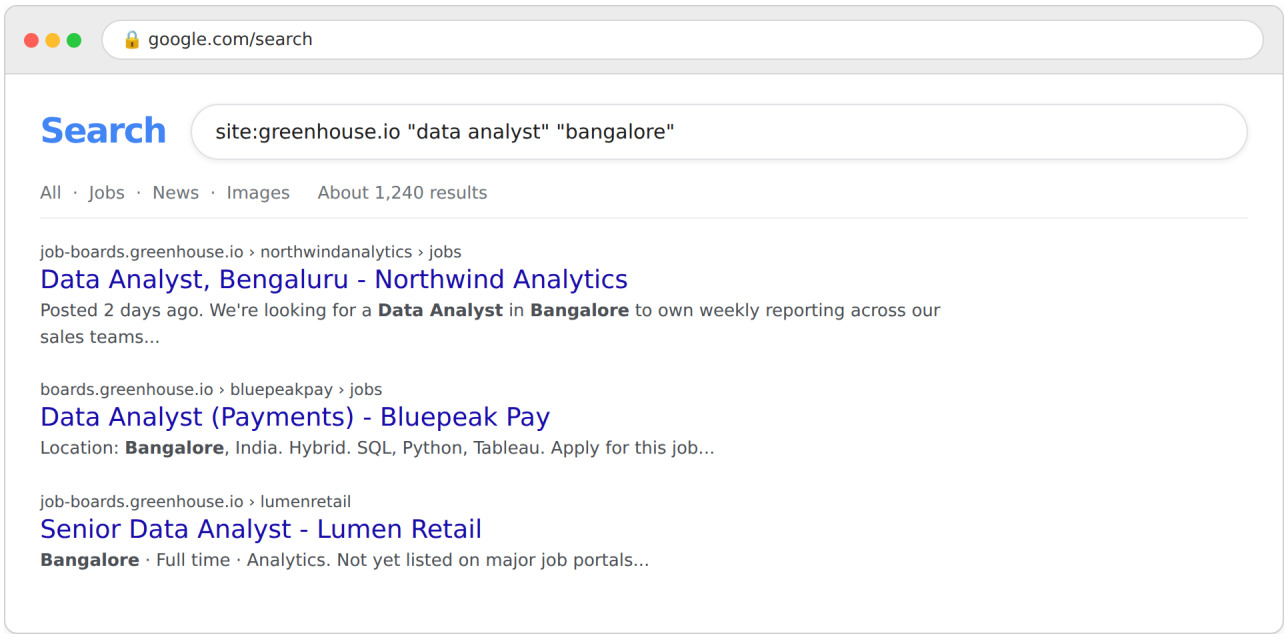

This uses a normal Google search operator called "site colon." It tells Google to only show you results from one specific website.

The formula

site: [hiring platform] "[job title]" "[city]"

> site:greenhouse.io "product manager" "bangalore"

Type that into Google exactly as it is, swapping in your role and city. You'll get a page of results from company career pages, all running on that one system, all matching your search.

Illustrative example: the search pulls roles straight from company hiring pages, some not yet on the big portals.

Try it with quotes and without

Sometimes the exact phrase in quotes is too narrow and returns nothing. If that happens, drop the quotes around the city, or drop the city entirely and scan the list yourself.

Part 3 · The Full List of Hiring Systems

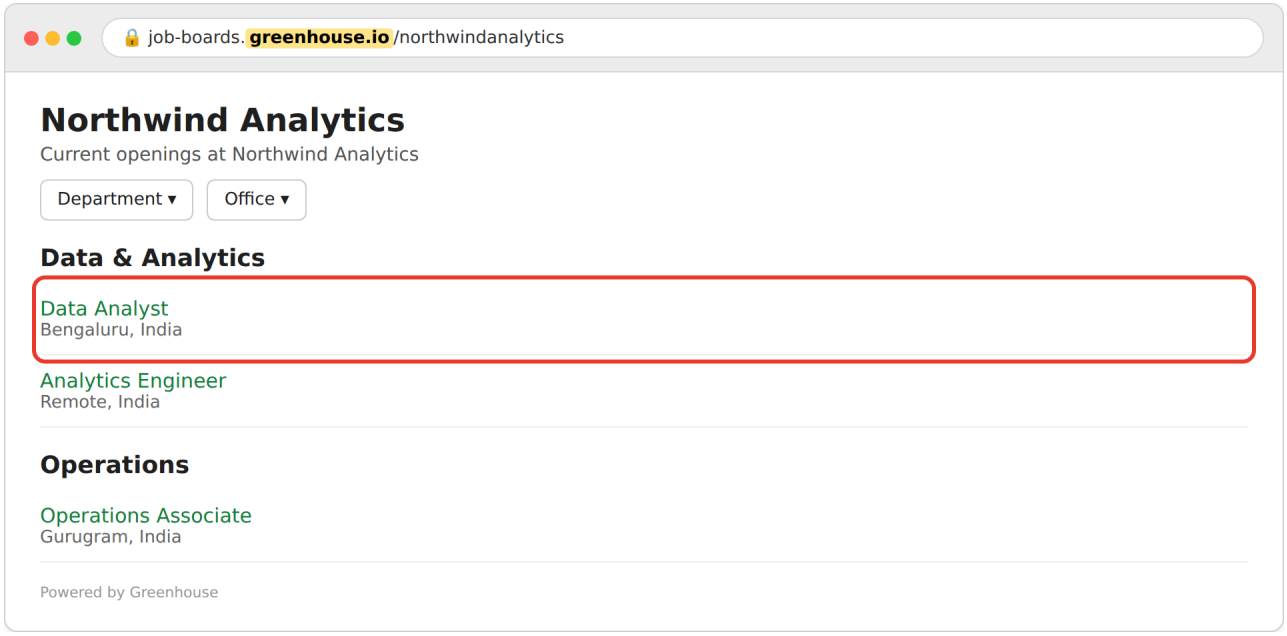

Different companies run their hiring through different systems. Most people have only ever heard of LinkedIn and Naukri. Here are the ones sitting quietly underneath a huge share of real job postings.

Platform	Search string to use
Greenhouse	site:greenhouse.io "[role]" "[city]"
Lever	site:jobs.lever.co "[role]" "[city]"
Workday	site:myworkdayjobs.com "[role]" "[city]"
Ashby	site:jobs.ashbyhq.com "[role]"
SmartRecruiters	site:jobs.smartrecruiters.com "[role]"
Recruitee	site:recruitee.com "[role]"
Oracle Recruiting Cloud	site:oraclecloud.com "[role]" "[city]"
Oracle Taleo	site:taleo.net "[role]" "[city]"
SAP SuccessFactors	site:successfactors.com "[role]"

What each one looks like when you land there

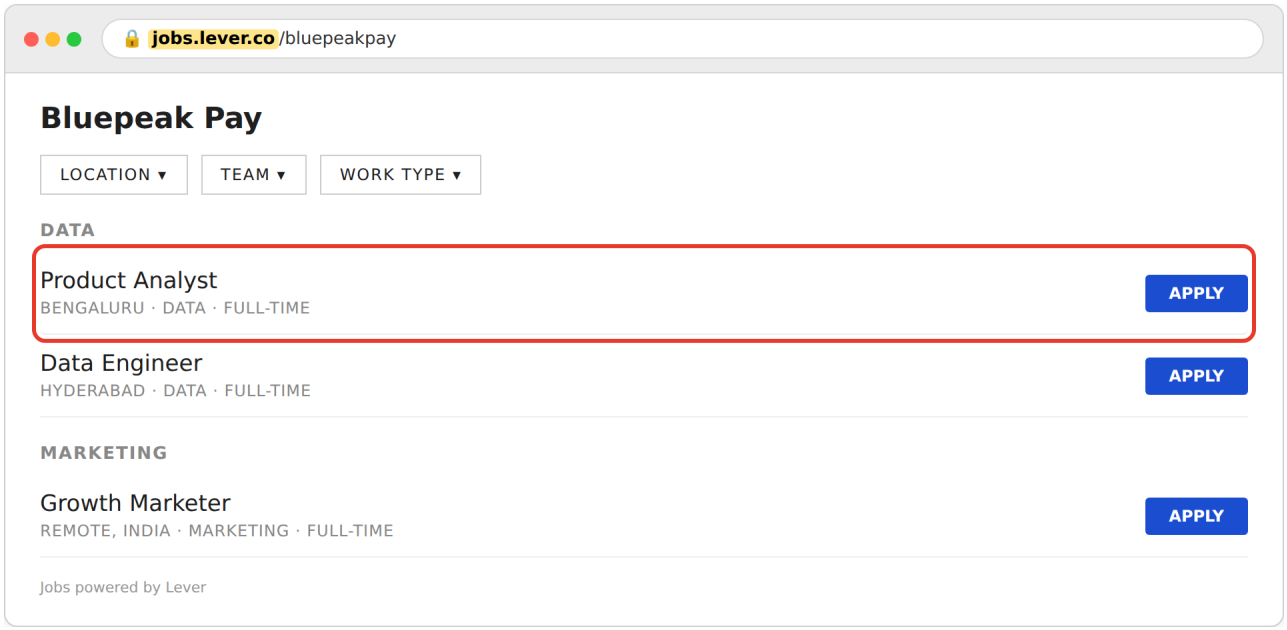

Knowing what these pages look like helps you recognise them instantly, and trust that you're on a real company hiring page, not a scam copy.

Greenhouse

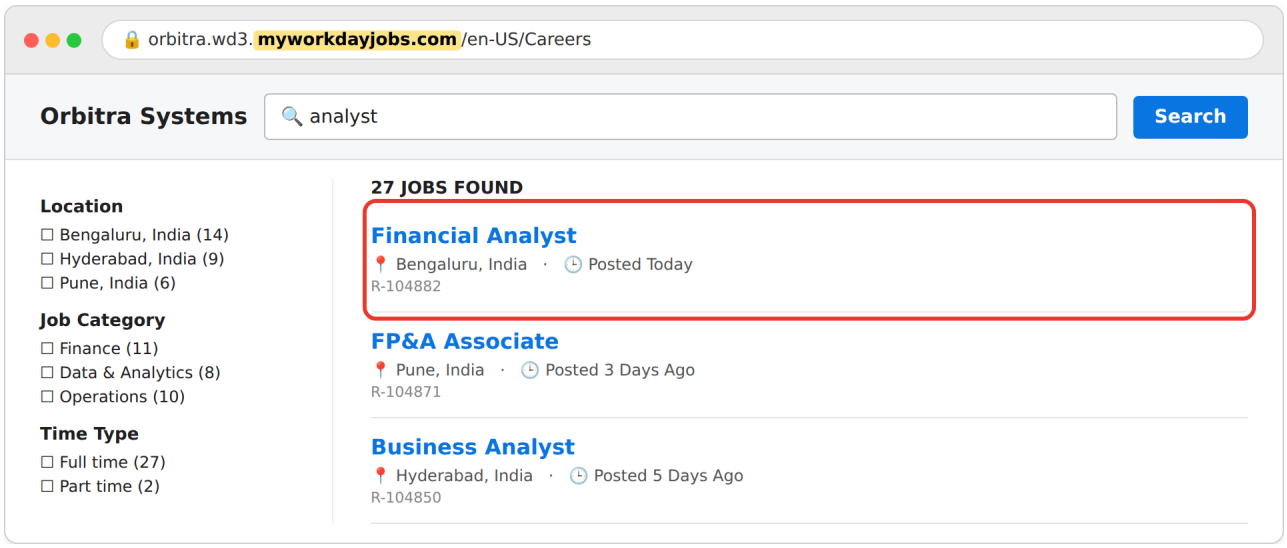

Illustrative example: a Greenhouse-hosted careers board. Clean list, grouped by department.

Lever

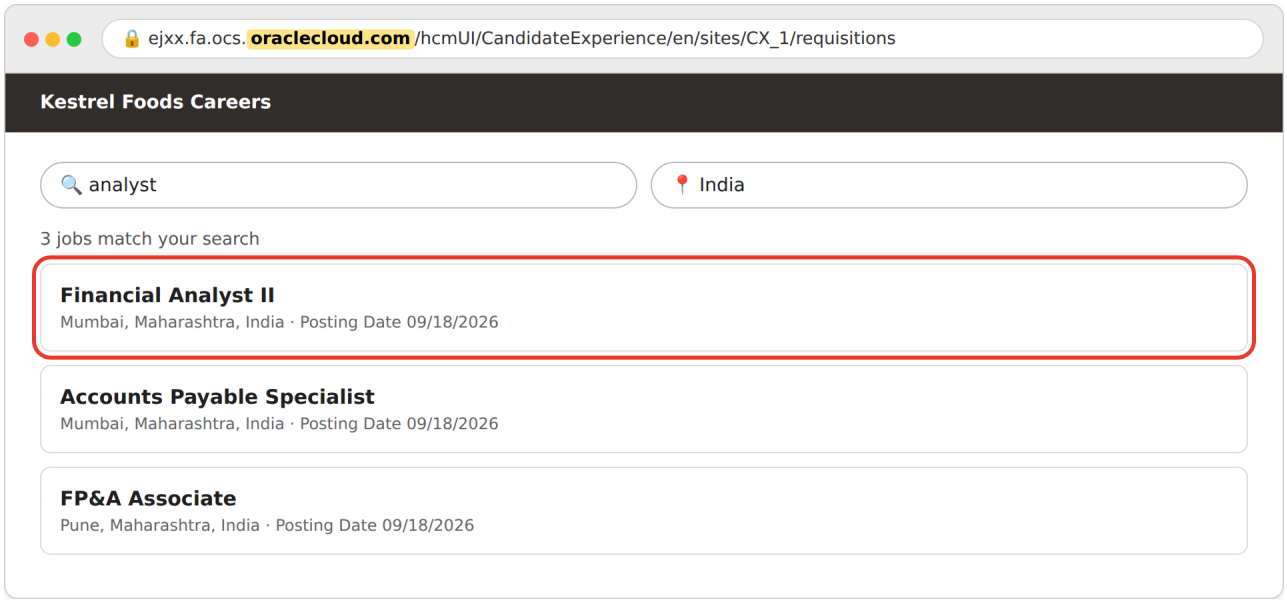

Illustrative example: a Lever-hosted board. Filters for location, team and work type at the top.

Workday

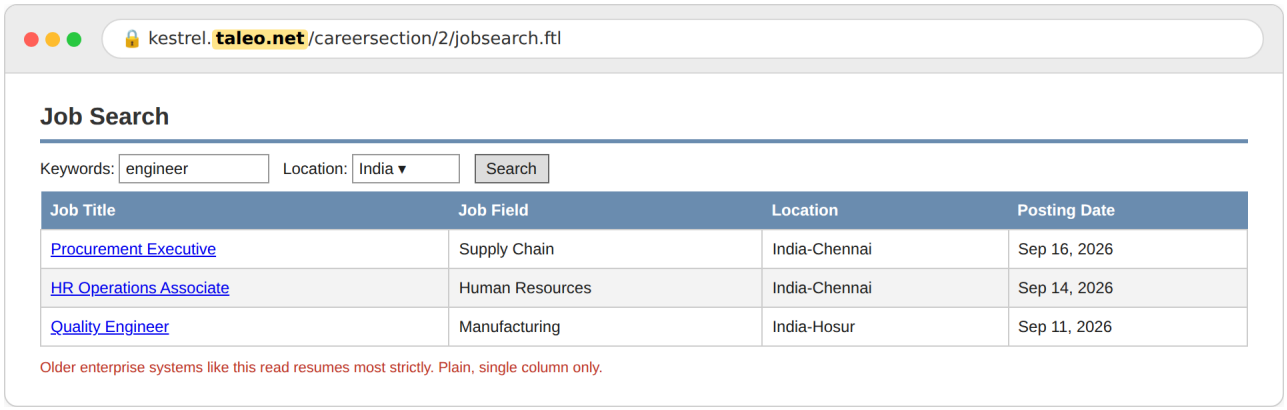

Illustrative example: a Workday careers site. Filter by location on the left, sort for the newest postings.

Oracle Recruiting Cloud

Illustrative example: Oracle Recruiting Cloud, common at large enterprises and manufacturing companies.

Oracle Taleo

Illustrative example: Oracle Taleo, the older table-style layout still used by many big employers.

You don't need to memorise these. Save this table, and run through each one whenever you're seriously job hunting.

Part 4 · Turning This Into a Routine

A one-time search isn't the goal. A habit is.

1. Pick your top 3 target roles or titles.
2. Run each one against Greenhouse, Lever and Workday once a week, same day, same time.
3. Keep a simple note of what's new since last time. If nothing's new, that's information too.
4. Apply the same day you find something here. This is the whole advantage. Don't sit on it.

Set a recurring reminder on your phone for this. "Job search Sunday, 20 minutes" beats hoping you remember.

Part 5 · The 10 Minute Checklist

☐	Pick your 3 target job titles.
☐	Run the Greenhouse search for all 3.
☐	Run the Lever search for all 3.
☐	Run the Workday search for all 3.
☐	Save anything relevant into one note or sheet.
☐	Apply to at least 1 the same day, don't wait.
☐	Set a weekly reminder to repeat this.

The jobs aren't hiding. Everyone's just looking in the same three places.

Run this once this week before you do anything else in your job search. Then tell me what you found.

With care,

Deepshikha

Instagram: @bydeepshikha
LinkedIn: linkedin.com/in/deepshikha-goswami-4224511b4